

An Overview of our Services

Höchsmann & Company is a company specializing in systematic recruitment, target-oriented assessment and individual coaching of executives at senior management levels.

We see ourselves as advisers in the fullest sense of the word on management, personnel and career decisions. To emphasize our professional philosophy, we have chosen to describe ourselves as Consultants in Executive Choices.

“Executive choices” can refer to decisions affecting other people, e.g. possible succession solutions or additions to a management team, but also to difficult decisions in an individual’s own career or personal life.

The diagram below shows our four main groups of services:
